In The Apology, Plato reports Socrates to have said, "So I withdrew and thought to myself: 'I am wiser than this man; it is likely that neither of us knows anything worthwhile, but he thinks he knows something when he does not, whereas when I do not know, neither do I think I know; so I am likely to be wiser than he to this small extent, that I do not think I know what I do not know." In this, an election year, you may think to yourself on many occasions, "I am wiser than this man." In PHIL 2143 we will test our wisdom against that of the men and women who preceded us, as well as those who seek to lead us.
